

THE PIOCHE WEEKLY RECORD.

VOL. XLVII.

JONES OF NEVADA.

The St. Louis Republic seems to be somewhat irritated at the attitude of Senator Jones of Nevada, in regard to the tariff bill, and complains of it with more feeling than justice. It says that Senator Jones "was, in a measure, the arbiter of the fate of the bill. He could hold it up and thus throw the Republicans into a most unpleasant position."

The Republic forgets, or ignores, two or three important facts. The first is that Senator Jones is not a Democrat. He acted with the Democrats in the last campaign, not as a Democrat, but as a silver Republican.

The second fact is that Senator Jones is in favor of a high tariff, and he has simply seized a favorable opportunity to impress upon the Republicans that Western interests are just as important to Western men as Eastern interests are to the men of the East.

The third fact, and altogether the most important, is that the action of Senator Jones has thrown the Republicans into a position, which, however, they may now regard it, is likely to prove to be the most unpleasant and embarrassing in their history.

The St. Louis Republic complains that "the first opportunity Senator Jones had to yield power which might have been used to the advantage of the Democrats he deserted his allies." Now, that remains to be seen, and we are firmly convinced that our St. Louis contemporary will discover before many months have elapsed that Senator Jones has wielded the power he had directly to the advantage of the Democrats, and in a way no Democrat would have done, even if he had the opportunity.

But suppose Senator Jones of Nevada, had acted as the Republic desired him to act; suppose he had held up the tariff bill. What would have been the result? Why there would have come a great outcry from the Republican leaders, big and little, to the effect that the Republicans had faithfully endeavored to carry out their pledge to restore prosperity by means of a tariff bill, but that a combination of silver men and Democrats prevented them.

The Republicans would ask nothing better than to have their tariff bill held up. It would lift them out of the most embarrassing position they have ever occupied before the people. If they could find the slightest excuse for dropping their tariff measure they would seize it as a drowning man grasps a straw.

It is singular that the St. Louis Republic should not realize the situation as it exists. It seems to us that no large amount of intelligence is necessary to convince a Democrat that his party has everything to gain by the adoption of the tariff bill and nothing to lose. It will be the most tremendous object lesson and argument in behalf of genuine tariff reform that could possibly be devised.

The Nevada Senator is one of the ablest men in this country. He is in favor of protective tariff, and therefore he could consistently add emphasis to the utility of the tariff measure by his amendment. We have no sort of doubt that he knew precisely the effect the bill have on the public mind when once it is put in operation. But whether he intended it or not, he did a good day's work for the Democratic party, for tariff reform and for the people at large, when he voted to report the measure.

He knows perfectly well, and has shown by unanswerable arguments that a tariff measure cannot, in the nature of things, restore prosperity that has been destroyed by cutting in half the purchasing power of the producers of the country. He knows moreover, that the failure of this tariff bill to restore prosperity will result in the most overwhelming victory for the Democrats that the country has ever witnessed.

Knowing these things, the Nevada Senator has made no mistake.—Atlanta Constitution.

Debs' Scheme.

Eugene V. Debs has devised what he terms a socialistic co-operative colony scheme. He proposes to raise an army of 100,000 unemployed men and march across the country to some Western or Southern state, where a new commonwealth is to be founded.

His idea is to enlist a membership that will insure the payment of $50,000 per month for the support of the movement, and in the course of a year or two the colony will be strong enough, not only in members, but financially, to elect a legislature, state officers, call a constitutional convention, and if disposed change the organic law of the state in which the colony is located.—Silver State.

Estray Notice.

Strayed from Comet district two weeks ago, two bay horses branded J D: supposed to have gone towards Elko. Both shod and the lighter bay wore a bell. Please send any information of their whereabouts to the undersigned, and be rewarded. HENRY T. FREUDENTHAL, Pioche, May 11th, 1897.

DISTRICT COURT.

Thursday, May 27.—In the case of Charles Matthews vs. Dorthen Matthews, an action for divorce. The defendant, residing now at Salina, Utah, by affidavits filed, represented herself as poor and unable to present her defense unless granted funds. Alleged the plaintiff to be worth $40,000 in real and personal property. Plaintiff showed that he had little property and was dependent on his own labor for support, that he was upwards of 70 years of age and that defendant had as much means as he. No order for alimony was entered and the case was set for trial on Saturday next.

On Friday and Saturday nothing was done but to pass on some deponents and fix dates for trial of several cases.

Monday and Tuesday of this week were occupied in the suit of O. G. Snow vs. O. C. Brown. This was an action brought for the rescission of a contract of sale to a half interest in the Eisenmann ranch in Pahranagat, by Snow to Brown, on account of fraud and failure of consideration. In the transaction Brown deeded several pieces of property in Salt Lake to Snow at a valuation of $9,000 on a part of which mortgages existed to the amount of $4,330. Brown was to cure for the mortgages but no particular time was mentioned. This was the gist of the case, and the decision was that defendant should have reasonable time in which to take up the mortgages, failing to do which the contract would be rescinded.

In the case of J. W. Palmer vs. Eliza Culverwell, tried at the last sitting of court, a new trial was denied. In Benj. Sanders vs. W. L. Scott, tried at the last sitting of court, judgment was entered for $110 in favor of the plaintiff with costs. This was a case brought on a note given plaintiff for several collections held by him for clients. Defendant sought to offset by pleading personal claims against plaintiff. These were denied and defendant took time in which to provide for an appeal.

Yesterday morning the case of James Nesbitt vs. W. M. Davidson, involving the right to a fraction of mining ground in Ferguson district, lying between the Monitor and Lookout mines, came on for trial for which Davidson has applied for a patent. The case is on trial as we go to press and promises to occupy all the day.

The Deepest Well.

The deepest well in the world will soon be completed near Pittsburgh, Pa. It is now more than one mile deep, and when finished it may reach down two miles into the earth. It is being bored in the interest of science. The object in penetrating so deeply is to determine just what the interior of the human footstool is like. From a commercial point of view the well was a success long ago. At comparatively few feet below the surface, both gas and oil were struck in paying quantities, but the company owning the plant determined to dedicate it to science and invited Prof. Hallock of Columbia College to carry on a series of temperature investigations as the hole is carried deeper and deeper into the earth. The results of these investigations are very interesting, and it is the opinion of several well-known scientists that the ultimate result of the boring will prove to be of widespread economic as well as of scientific value. Most significant of all the facts so far ascertained is that the well grows steadily hotter as its depth increases.

The temperature of the Pittsburgh well, at a depth of 5000 feet, was found to be 120.9 degrees Fahrenheit. At the bottom the temperature is 128 degrees Fahrenheit. The well in its present stage is 5502 feet deep. This gradual rise is found to exist all over the world, although it is more marked in some places than in others. In a deep well near Wheeling, W. Va., the temperature is 51 degrees at the top and 110 degrees at the depth of 4500 feet. In the Spersburg salt well, near Berlin, the temperature is about 47 degrees at the top and 118 degrees at a depth of 4170 feet. In the Schladabach salt well, near Liepsic, the surface temperature is about 51 degrees, while at 5740 feet it runs up to 135.5 degrees. External conditions seem in no way to effect the temperature of the wells.

It is said that the only man Peter Maher and Tom Sharkey could agree to for a referee for their coming big contest in New York is Jim Corbett. This looks queer on its face yet, as has been noted here before, there is no telling what a fighter is going to do. Corbett should make a good referee; no intention is had to question his honesty. But the three of them have passed the "roast" about so strongly occasionally that—well, the public might almost look for a triangular scrap with Sharkey, Maher and Corbett in the same ring. Disgusting Exhibition.

A Tampa, Florida, telegram says that Sportsman's park, a great resort of the Cuban population of Tbor City and Tampa was the scene of a fight between a 15 pound wild cat and a Jamaica negro, known only as Sam. The negro was promised $200 if he succeeded in killing the wild cat inside of 30 minutes with his bare hands and no kicking. At least 500 people witnessed the battle, which was bloody from beginning to end. The cat had been starved for several days and had also been teased previous to Monday's exhibition, and also tortured to frenzy. The negro succeeded in choking it after a frightfully brutal exhibition, but the negro fainted afterwards from exhaustion.

Of Interest to Nevadans.

Senator Stewart during the past week secured the passage through the senate of the Pute Indian war claim bill and the bill for the relief of P. S. Corbett. A large number of Nevadans and Californians are interested in the former bill. This bill has passed the senate at every session since Senator Stewart has been in the senate, but has each time failed in the house. Strenuous efforts will be made to get consideration for the bill in the house at an early date.—Silver Knight.

A Nevada Athlete.

Reno, Nev., March 6, 1897. I have used Tribulinet a year. As a rub-down before or after athletic work, I want nothing better. It also cures bruises and sprains effectively. A. C. HELMOLD.

Mr. Helmold is one of the best-known athletes in Nevada.—Reno Journal.

Two men named Lewis and Farrell brothers-in-law, quarreled in California. Farrell went to the house of Lewis and advanced threateningly, with a single-tree in his hand. Lewis took a rifle and fired, shooting Farrell. Lewis was tried for murder and the Court, in charging the jury, said that Lewis might have evaded trouble had he retreated and, upon that instruction, he was convicted. Lewis appealed to the Supreme Court and was granted a new trial. The Supreme Court held that a man in his own house is not required to retreat from any aggressor, even if the life of the aggressor is in the balance.

It has been held for ages in England and also in the United States, that a man's house is his castle and that he has the right to defend it against any and all comers. The Supreme Court of California has sustained that law by holding that a man has the legal right to defend himself while in his own house from any and all aggressors even at the cost of the lives of the assailants.

In the Gold Dust mine at Mercur, Utah, recently the shaft in the lower workings passed through nine feet of paying ore and stopped at a stratum of lime, supposed to be the footwall. Last week it was thought best to sink the shaft deeper in order to connect with other workings, and then it was discovered that the lime stratum was only a few inches thick, and under it was found twenty-two feet more of the best ore ever found in the property. Another lime stratum has now been encountered, but whether it is the footwall or the covering of another large ore body is not yet known.—Scientific Press.

The Sacramento Bee in commenting on the gift of Astor of over $100,000 to a London charity fund, says: It will soon be his turn to lend a cool half million or so to that Napoleon of all dead beats, the Prince of Wales, and the doors will fly open to him. For your titled English society cannot tolerate an American, no matter how rich he may be, until he has first been plucked by the royal bummer.

Andy McWilliams, well known in Reno, rolled off the bank of the ditch running through Chinatown the other day while in a drunken condition and floated into the Truckee river and was drowned. A Chinaman saw him roll in and ran to his assistance, but the river current had picked him up before he could do anything for him, and McWilliams was drowned.—Ind.

Butte, Montana is having a reign of terror from burglars, holdups and murders. The past few weeks have witnessed a large number of burglars a few murders and holdups by the score by a band of organized men. A vigilance committee has been formed and 100 men will assist the authorities in cleaning the town of the things and they intend to do it up in short order.

The San Francisco Post hopes that the Oregon thieves who stole the body of a deceased banker in the expectation of securing a big ransom are doubtless now convinced that it is almost as difficult to get money from a dead banker as it is from one in the flesh.

SEEING AND BELIEVING.

Some of the Tricks the Eyes Play on the Understanding. It is an old and wise saying that "seeing is believing," yet everybody knows that very often what you see, and therefore believe, proves to be not really true at all. As we grow older, says a writer in St. Nicholas, finding that our eyes have so frequently deceived us, we are often not satisfied until we have verified it by touch or smell or hearing or taste, or by looking at some doubtful thing from different points of view, or under a different lighting.

We are not willing to believe that a conjurer actually draws rabbits from a man's ear or coin from the tip of his nose just because our eyes tell us such tales. Sometimes our deceptions are so lasting that things must be made wrong in order to look right, which seems rather contradictory. If we look at the letter S or the figure 8 as carefully as we can the upper and lower halves seem to be almost exactly the same size. If we turn them upside down, the difference in the size of the loops is quite astonishing, and we wonder how we could have been so mistaken; yet perhaps the truth is that the loops are neither so different nor so much alike as they seem to be, as we see when we look at them turned upon their sides.

BONES OF ST. PATRICK.

Claim That Relics in Montreal Church Are Genuine. Recently a statue of St. Patrick, from the studio of a sculptor in Rome, Italy, was placed in the church of St. Patrick's church, which edifice recently celebrated its fiftieth anniversary. On the breast of the statue is a small box which, it is claimed, contains a portion of the bones of Ireland's patron saint. The question having been raised as to the genuineness of this relic, documentary evidence has been produced showing that it had for centuries been in the possession of the monastery of the Holy Cross in Saxo Urvo, Italy. This institution has a fully attested record proving beyond question that the relic is a portion of the mortal remains of Ireland's saint. Great interest is manifested among the Catholic community as to whether the relic will manifest any miraculous characteristics. It was presented to the church through Mgr. Le Clair, one of the professors of the Canadian college at Rome, who formerly was one of the priests of St. Patrick's.

Magnets in the Eyes. The magnetic eye has long been recognized by lovers, but only recently has its existence been admitted by scientists. According to Dr. Waller, the Fulmerian professor of physiology to the Royal Institute, the currents in such eyes will not disturb the emotions at all; they are, in fact, so slight that nothing but the most sensitive galvanometer would reveal their presence. The magnetic currents of the retina are not very powerful things; but last anyone should still be inclined to the magical powers of the human eye it may be added that a speck of dust would probably set up a more powerful current in it than the sublimest efforts of the human will.—N. Y. World.
